

November 2021

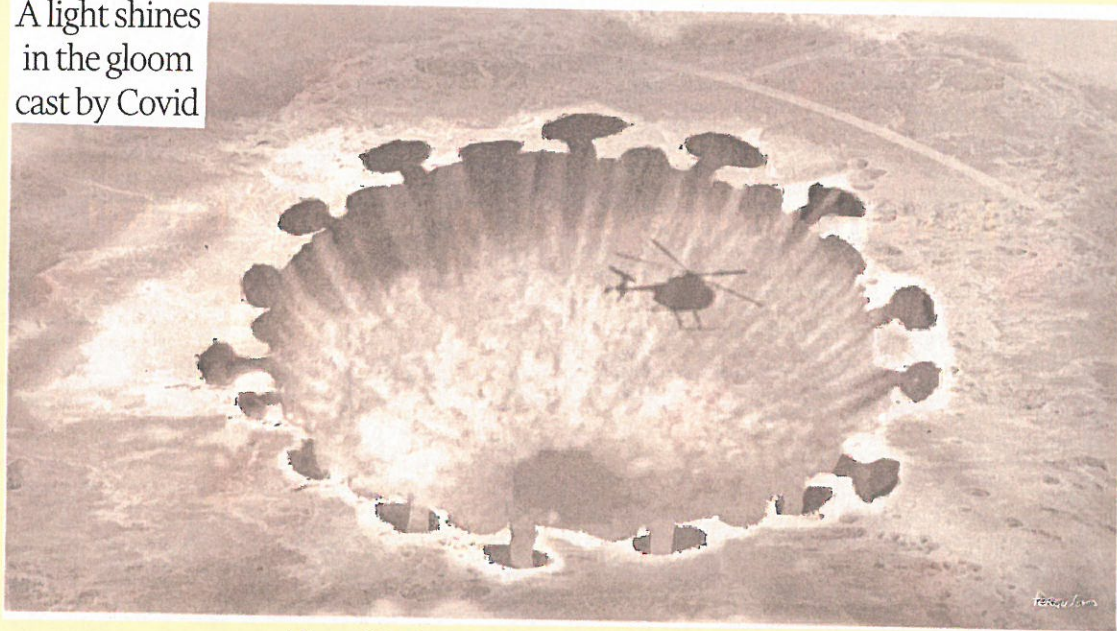

Recent Development in Global Market

Hiroshi Watanabe

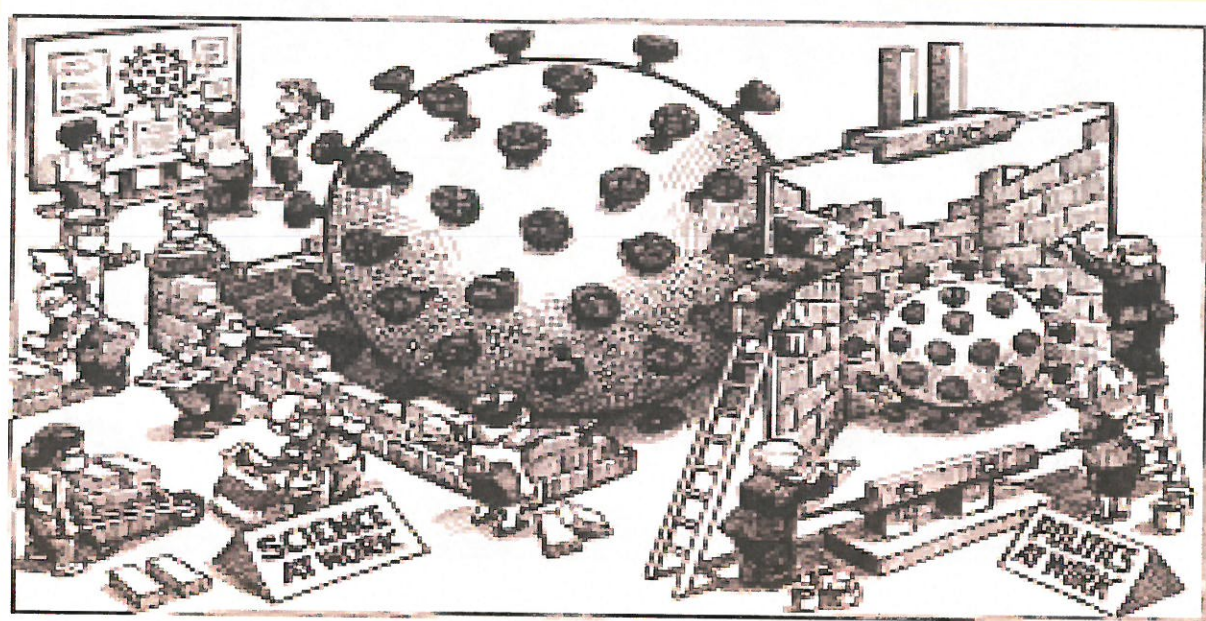

The Economist, July 24th-30th 2021

A light shines
in the gloom cast by Covid

Financial Times, Wednesday 2 December 2020

The Economist May 16th 2020

Doctors are being asked to play God

Financial Times Friday 3 April 2020

5

Covid-19 and inequality
The great divider

The Economist March 28th 2020

6

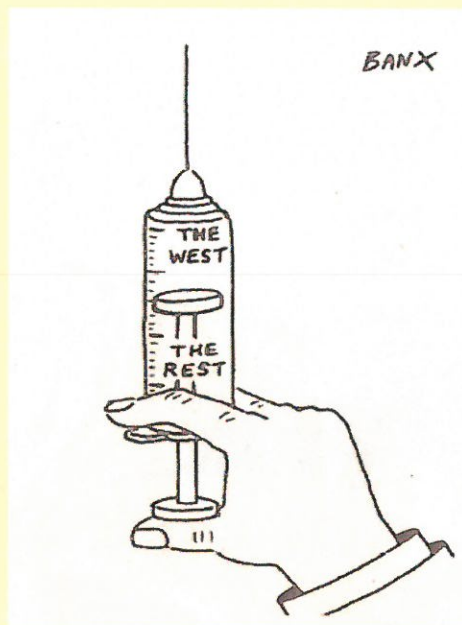

Separation anxiety

How covid-19 could impede the catch-up of poor countries with rich ones

The Economist, May 22nd-28th 2021

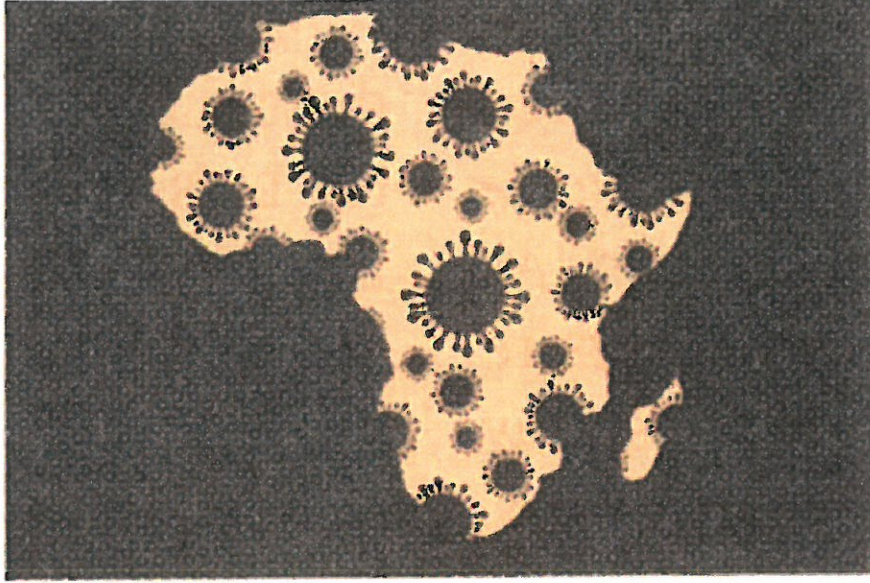

7

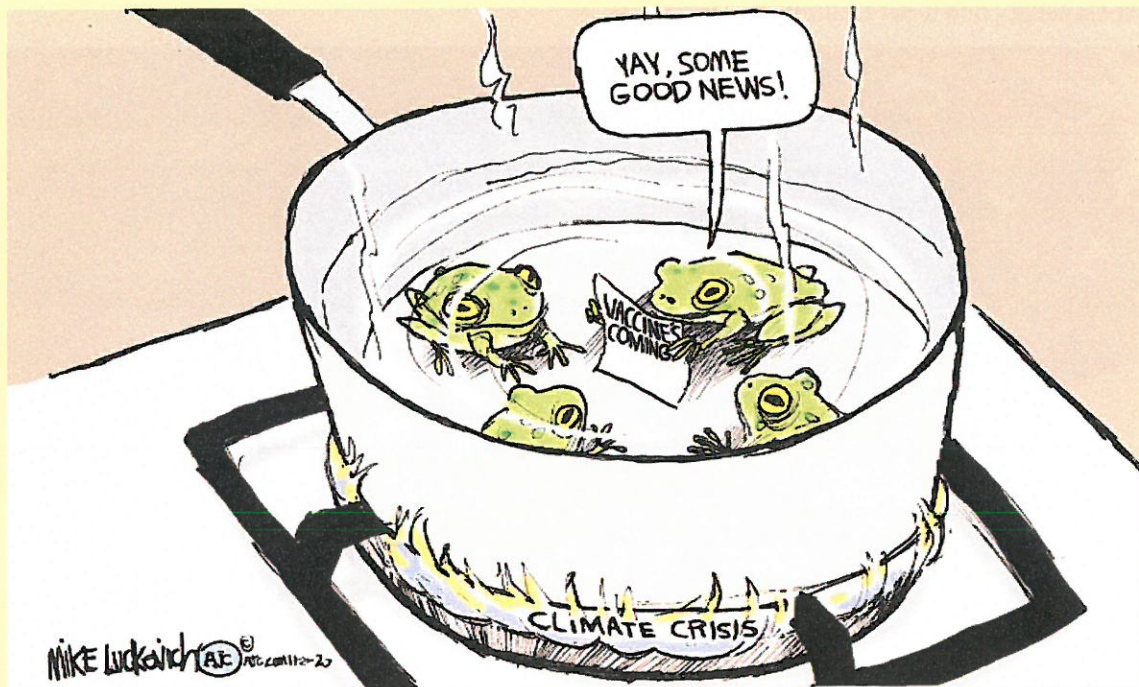

Financial Times, Friday 20 August 2021

8

Africa's long covid

The Economist, February 6th-12th 2021

Internet

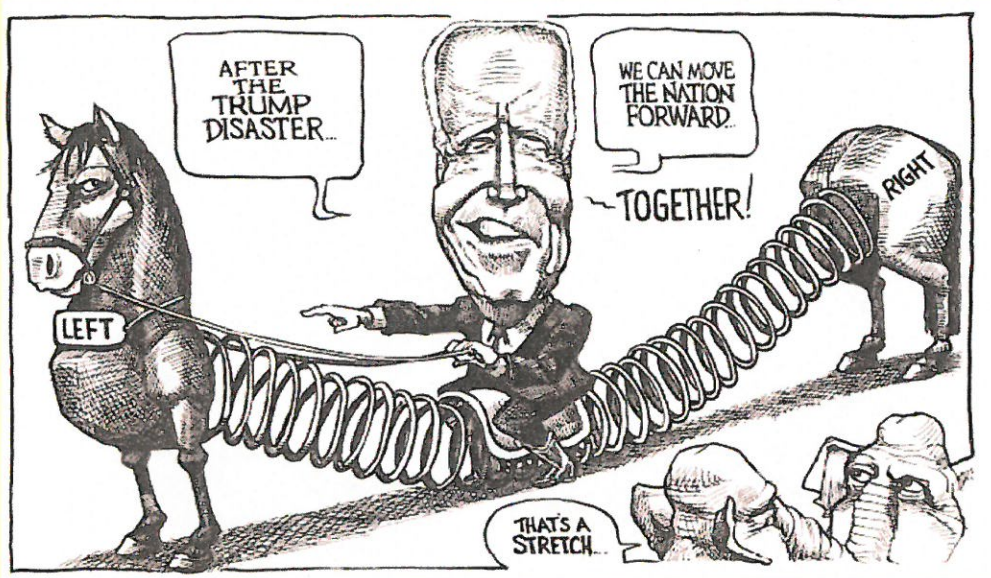

The Economist May 2nd-8th 2020

Free exchange | How to pay for the pandemic

The Economist March 28th 2020

The Economist, January 16th-22nd 2021

Democratic discipline

Despite its recent breakdown, Joe Biden's party looks likely to pass his domestic agenda into law

The Economist, October 9th-15th 2021

Lexington | The anti-vax delusion

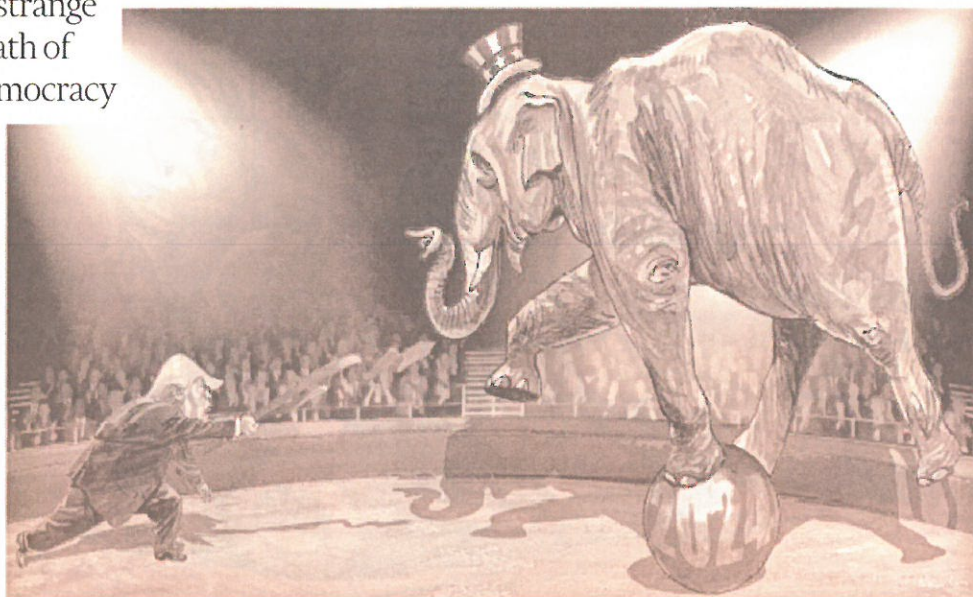

America's vaccination programme is stalling. Populist conservatives are to blame

The Economist, July 17th-23rd 2021

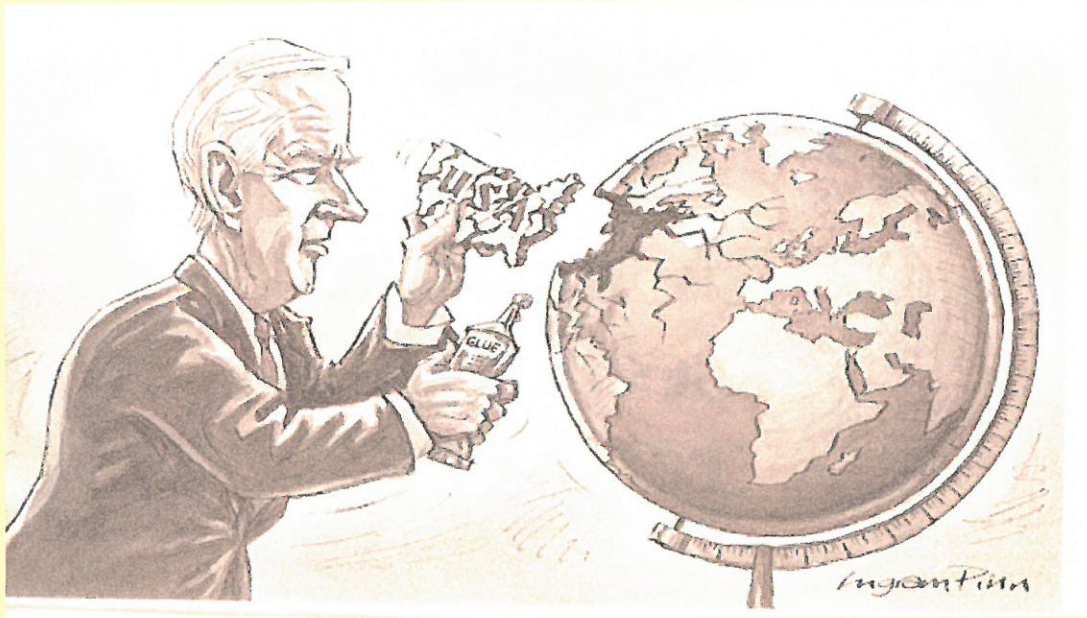

15

The strange death of
US democracy

Financial Times, Wednesday 29 September, 2021

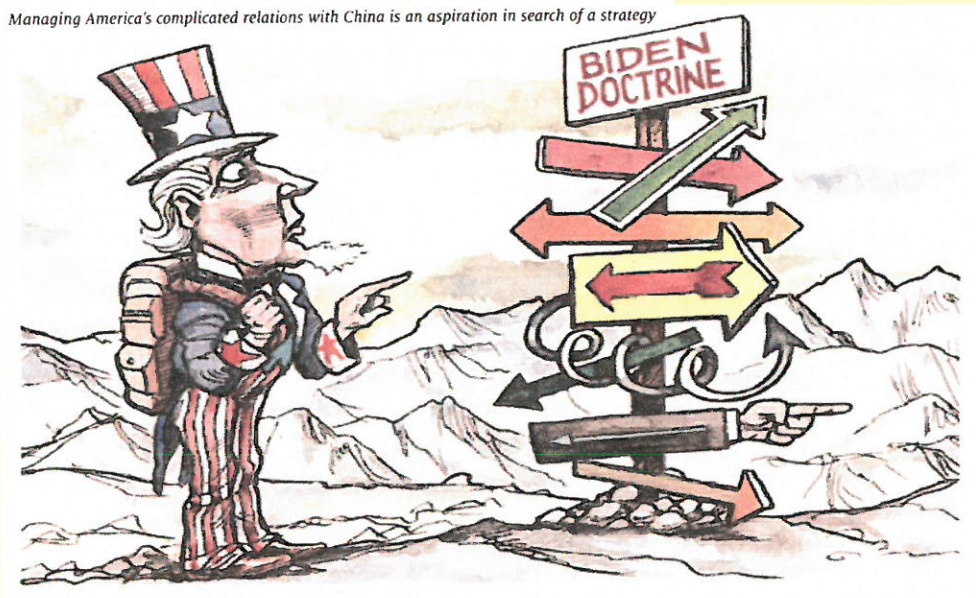

16

Financial Times, 23 January/24 January 2021

Lexington | Beware false doctrines

Managing America's complicated relations with China is an aspiration in search of a strategy

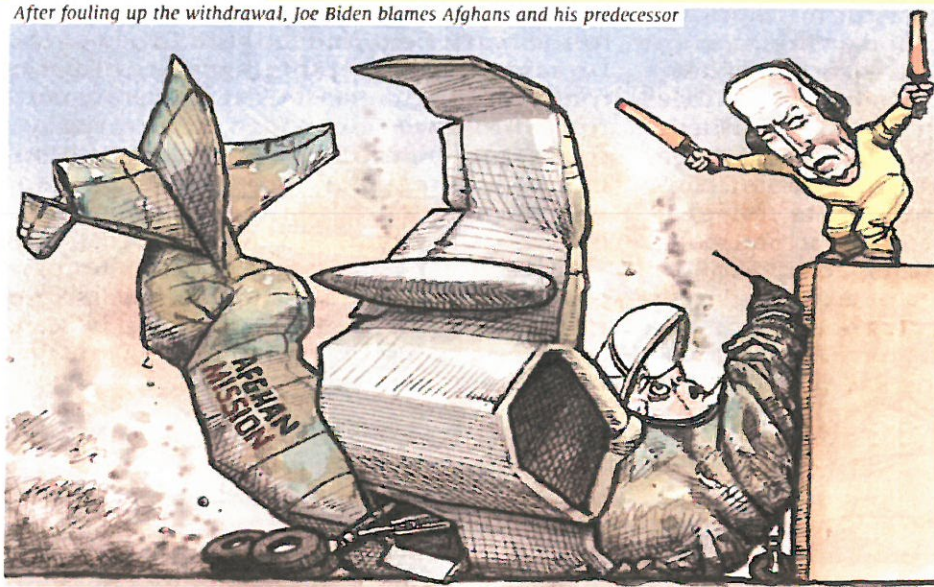

The Economist, September 18th -24th, 2021

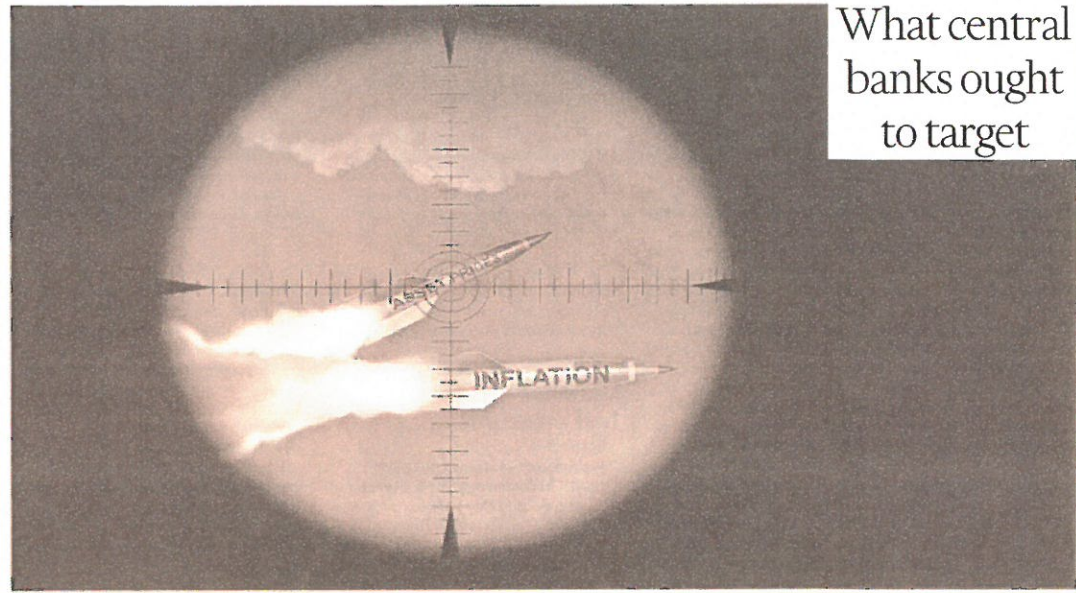

Financial Times, 14 November/15 November 2020

Remnants of a policy

After fouling up the withdrawal, Joe Biden blames Afghans and his predecessor

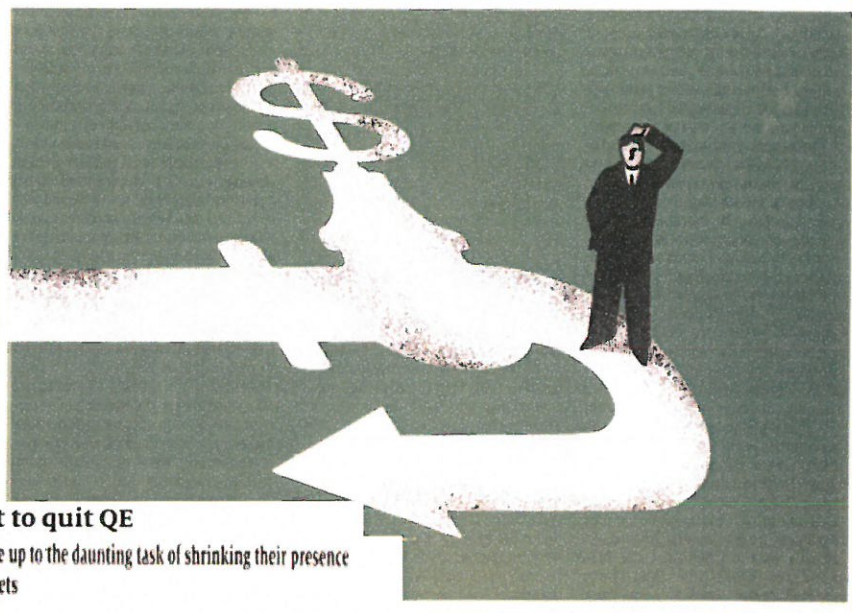

The Economist, August 14th -27th 2021

What central banks ought to target

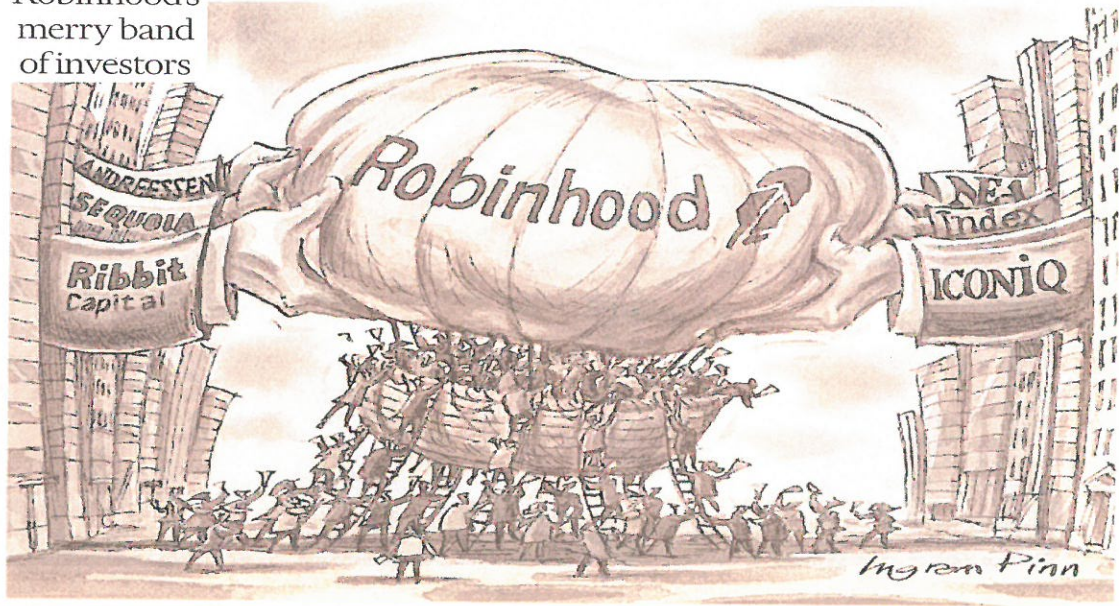

Financial Times, Wednesday 3 March 2021

The quest to quit QE
Central banks face up to the daunting task of shrinking their presence in financial markets

The Economist, July 10th-16th 2021

Robinhood's merry band of investors

Financial Times, Friday 5 February 2021

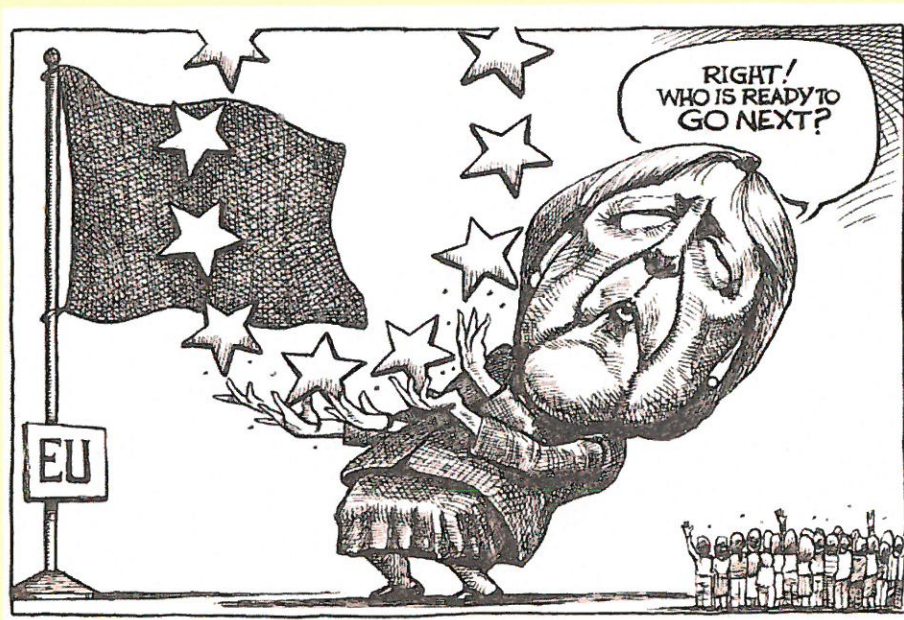

SPAC invasion

The Economist, February 20th-26th 2021

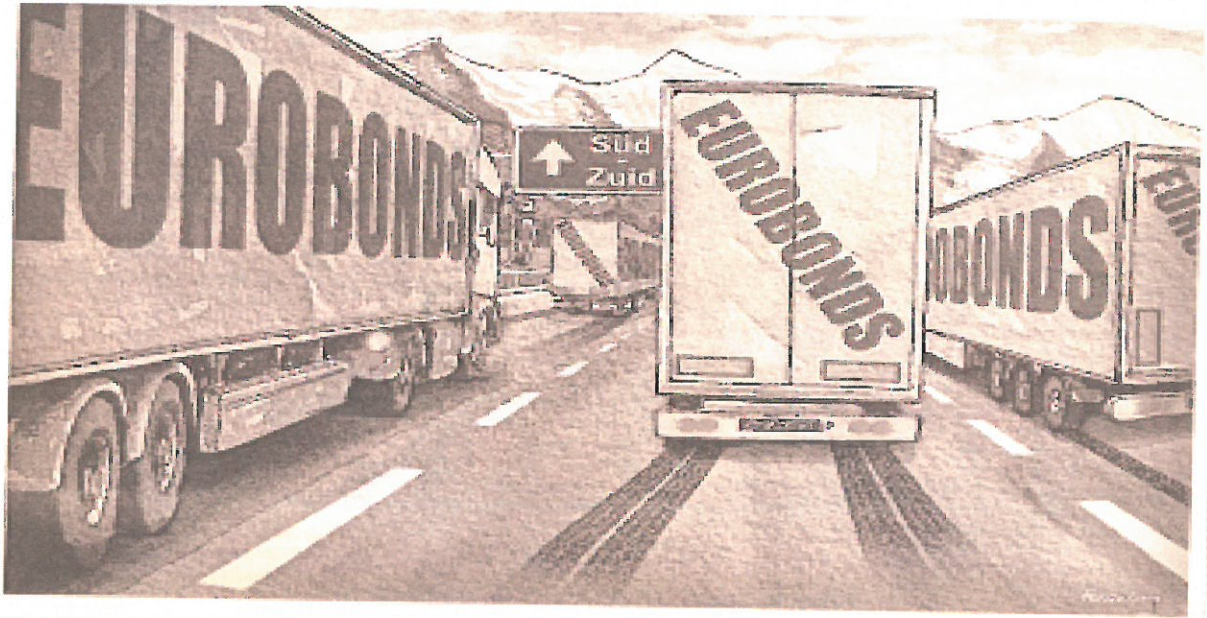

Financial Times, 31 October/1 November 2020

The Economist October 2nd-8th, 2021

Eurobonds are not the answer

Financial Times 7 April 2020

27

Financial Times, Thursday 29 July 2021

28

The Draghi delusion

The Economist, April 24th-30rd 2021

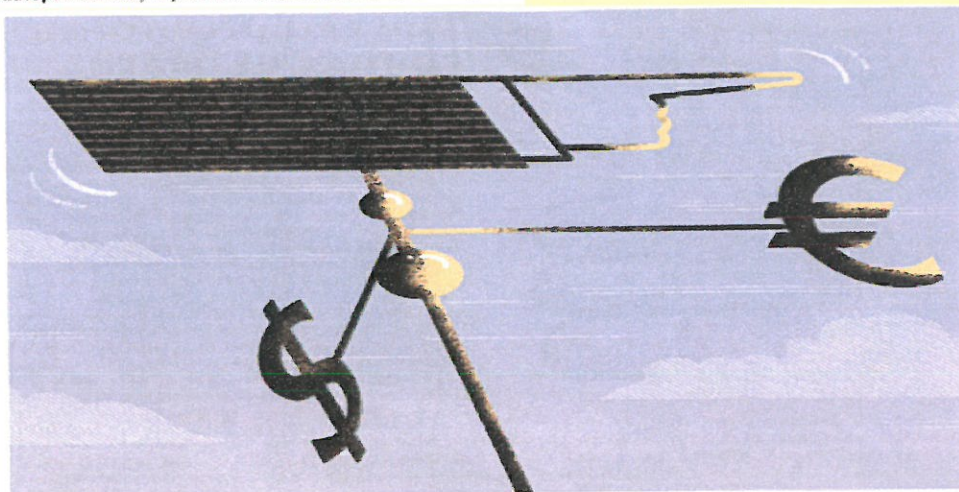

29

The international role of the euro

Euro visions

PARIS

Europe's currency aspirations are given a fillip by covid-19

The Economist, June 26th-July 2nd 2021

30

Free exchange | At the coalface of climate policy

Could the EU's proposed carbon tariff on imports prove an example to others?

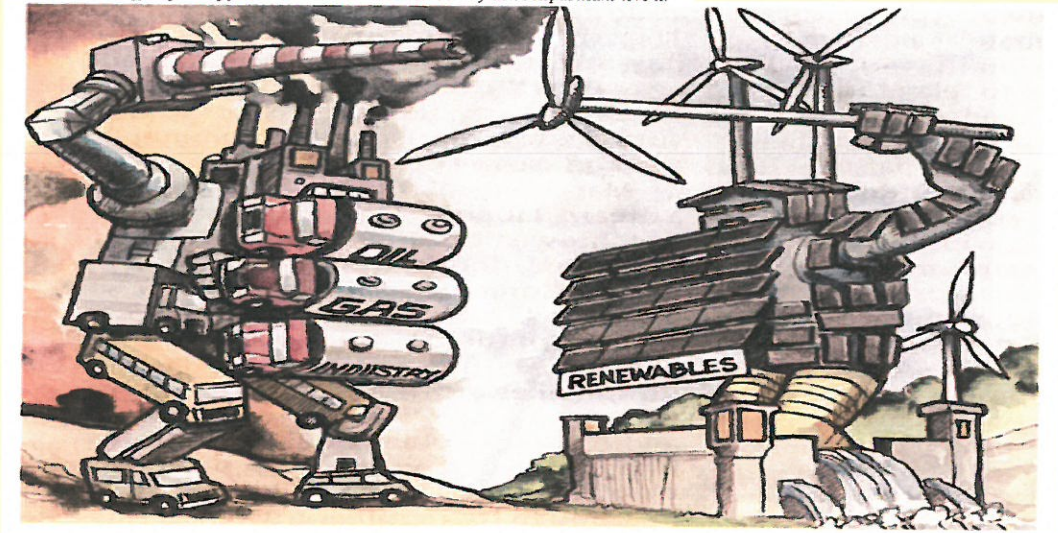

MING FONG
Chinese companies are adapting to a more hostile global climate—and thriving

The Economist, July 17th-23rd 2021

31

Green on brown

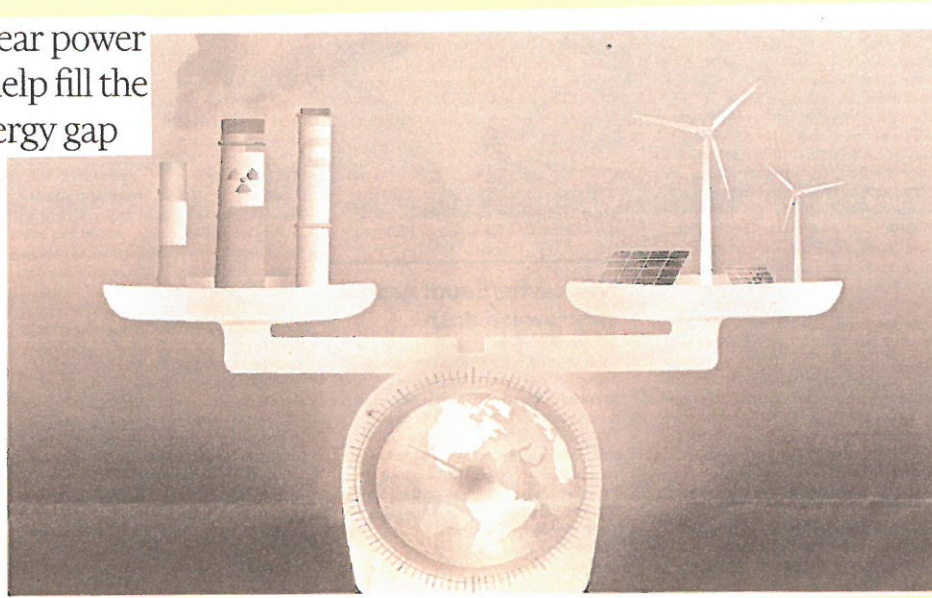

Renewable energy is growing fastest in conservative states. So why don't Republicans love it?

The Economist October 2nd-8th, 2021

32

Nuclear power can help fill the energy gap

Financial Times, Friday 8 October, 2021

A very big balancing act

NEW YORK
Creating the new hydrogen economy is both a massive undertaking and a delicate one

The Economist, October 9th-15th 2021

The Economist March 28th 2020

The Belt and Road Initiative
Break time

Economist June 6th-12th 2020

China Inc abroad

Inconspicuous expansion

HONG KONG

Chinese companies are adapting to a more hostile global climate—and thriving

The Economist, July 17th-23rd 2021

37

The property complex

HONG KONG

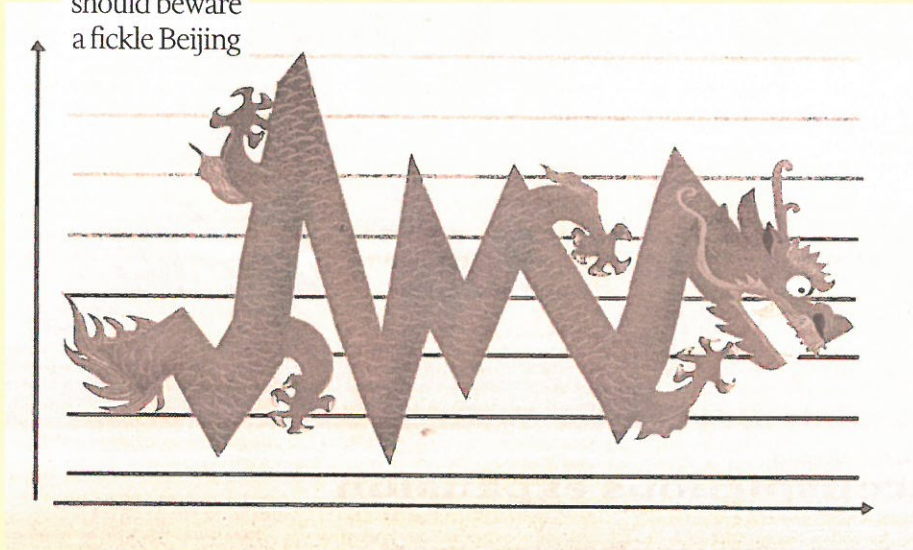

How a housing downturn could wreck China's growth model

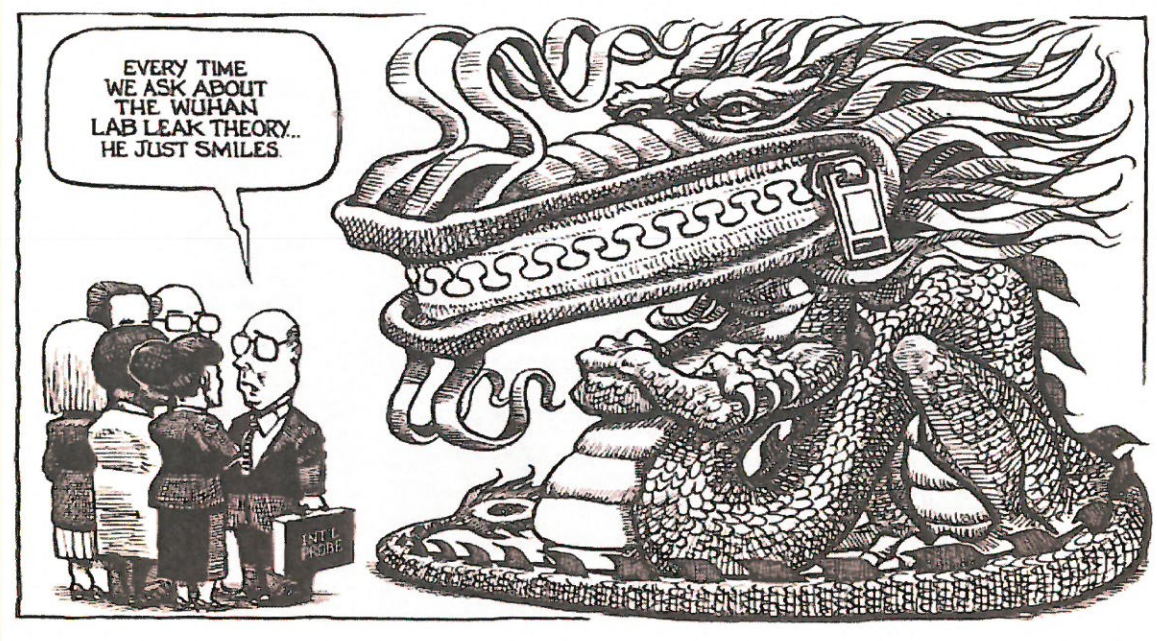

The Economist October 2nd-8th, 2021

38

China investors should beware
a fickle Beijing

Financial Times, Thursday 12 August 2021

The Economist, June 19th-25th 2021